Christmas Storytelling

Patsy Lawson Hatfield

Our December program is Guest Night. This means that the program is non-technical and that spouses and significant others of members have a free dinner. This year members will also have a free dinner.

Our December program features Patsy Hatfield Lawson who is a professional story teller. She gave us a great presentation in December 2011, and we have invited her back. Patsy will be accompanied by Gordon Reid, a professional musician playing the banjo. This should be a great program and an opportunity to treat your spouse to a night out.

Patsy Hatfield Lawson is a descendant of four feuding mountain families-the Hatfield/McCoy, and the lesser known, Greene/Jones. Patsy, an award winning professor and family therapist, grew up in East Tennessee in the Appalachian Mountains. She was surrounded by her parents and some 20 plus aunts and uncles who spent their evenings gathered on the front porch, sharing stories. She watched and learned while her family adjusted to change, and worked through conflict while living out their traditional mountain values. They shared their knee-slapping humor, keen disappointments, anger, joys, and hard-won wisdom with Patsy, and lucky for us-she absorbed it all.

Today, Patsy shares those memories with audiences, carrying them back to a time of big families, hard work and country dinners.

Please remember to register your guests.
