Bringing IoT automation into the home; your home
JP White - Scrum Master, HealthTrust

Our speaker is JP White who has over twenty-five years IT experience developing and installing large, complex information systems both here and overseas. JP will discuss will bring IoT technology into the home and describe a personal journey of automating his home that began during a kitchen remodel, first starting with lighting and rounding off with autonomous operation of garage doors.

This talk is a follow up to the AITP meeting held in February 2017 when we listened to a fascinating talk from Gerald Marquis about doing business in an IoT world. The challenges of IoT in a business have direct parallels in home automation. Challenges such as security and management, platform and vendor longevity concerns. JP will discuss why home automation will become increasingly important in the 21st century as new home builders are beginning to build IoT directly into new homes to meet the needs of connected buyers making homes cheaper to run and enhancing security.

JP presently works for HealthTrust, a part of HCA, in Nashville, TN as Scrum Master. JP also sits on the TSU Advisory board helping to shape curriculum for the benefit of students and future employers alike. He previously was Project Manager – Software Development for five years with Servpro Industries, Inc. JP came to the United States to work for Embraer Aircraft Maintenance Services and was with them for fifteen years as Manager Information Systems and IT Consultant.

JP has been widely recognized for his IT leadership and management across many technical areas. JP has a B.S. degree in Computing in Business from the Huddersfield Polytechnic in England. He is a Certified Scrum Master and Kanban Management professional. JP and his family live in the Hendersonville area of Nashville. He has also served admirably as AITP Nashville Chapter President for several terms. This should be an interesting session on a popular subject.
